2 VOTING METHODS AND CRITERIA.

Members of the jury accessed the voting system via the PIAM Prizes web page; each member was assigned a log-in code and voting was anonymous.

A score of 0 to 10 was assigned to each proposal.

The total score is the product of the arithmetic average of the scores assigned by all members of the jury.

The names of the contestants who entered the winning projects are published in this statement.

4 AWARD-WINNING PROJECTS: MOTIVATED ANALYSIS OF THE DECISION.

PROFESSIONAL CATEGORY

FIRST PRIZE

SCORE 8.00

ECO-TULOU.

By: LONG STUDIO. Marina Carpio Pérez and Alberto David Fernández González.

The point of departure was the need to improve quality of life for the population in Sichuan province, developing a plan for holiday homes which demonstrate respect for their surrounding environment and reflect traditional local forms of construction. The project reinterprets traditional constructions with masterful use of Active finishes to support other sustainable strategies in creating a healthful environment, an essential key to restoring the balance of body and mind.

This utopian concept gives rise to a high-impact, innovative structure using materials very skilfully in the façades, roofs and frames.

Bold, highly expressive graphics clearly present the project's aims.

SECOND PRIZE

ATMÓSFERAS

By: Julia Molina Virués and Adrián Martínez Muñoz.

The project's complete response to the concept of balance between body and mind was appreciated; it also adapts to the environment and fits into it respectfully with an open, flexible cellular composition. The project stands out for its formal and geometric study of layout and the access route through a highly rational yet poetic system.

There is a great emphasis on use of colour codes and textures, using different materials to give meaning to each area.

The presentation is appropriate for the project, elegant and explanatory.

IN-BEETWEEN. Yoga Interpretation Center in Bali, Indonesia.

By: W+M Design Studio. Titus Pandus Wismahaksi and Maria Nersiantista Putri.

This plan for a yoga centre responds perfectly to the typological requirements of the competition. It is a place for studying the discipline, the goal of which is to achieve conscious connection of body and mind.

There is an emphasis on the combination of public and private space, use of materials and the symbolism of architectural form consistently with its function.

The simple, clear presentation of the project conveys a sense of great visual serenity, perfectly reflecting the theme of the project.

TOPOGRAFÍAS DE VIENTO. Reclamation and Expansion of a Medical Centre in Tarifa

By: TRECEUVE Carlos Sánchez Sanabria and Verónica Rodríguez Vergara.

This renovation project for reclamation and expansion of a medical facility stands out for its analysis of the existing problems, offering a solution which is very reasonable and perfectly expressed in both text and graphics.

Though somewhat monolithic, the project expresses a desire to integrate the concept of "mens sana" in a medical facility, using natural light, space and materials and giving them significant symbolic value.

The Judges also emphasised the quality and explanatory value of the way the project was presented.

STUDENTS' CATEGORY

FIRST PRIZE

PUNTEGGIO 7,00

CON 2000 AÑOS DE HISTORIA. Employment Centre.

By: Pablo Robles López.

The student who designed this project reconsidered a "place", coming up with a bold, innovative typological concept; the aesthetic solutions employed in it are balanced and appropriately justified by the programme.

Mixed use of buildings permits production of interesting social interrelationships, offering young people an opportunity for gradual integration into the world of work.

Ceramic materials were used in the project, such as wall, roof and floor strips integrated with Active photocatalytic finishes for improving environmental quality.

SECOND PRIZE

SCORE 6.83

STAR SPA. WELLNESS CENTRE FOR BODY AND MIND.

By: Susana Café and Tiago Boieiro. Universidade de Évora.

This plan for a wellness centre by Lake Alqueva stands out for the consistency of the programme and its aesthetics. It is presented in a way which clearly reveals the designers' intention; the use of materials is pleasing and appropriate.
